

Write down what fuels each focus area in your life. Then use the information to incorporate more of it into your life regularly.